my black book

As the hosts of Entertaining with Michele and Gia, a home and entertaining show on AOL.com, Gia Russo (far left) and Michele Adams offer up ingenious tips for interior decorating and party-throwing—all in a way that's playful, sleek, and totally cool. Here, the L.A.-based duo share the resources they rely on most. —Emily Hsieh

Modernseed.com

"We both have toddlers, and it's so hard to find stylish baby accessories that blend in with your decor," notes Russo. "This site stocks all the best design pieces—nothing cutesy or overdone."

Boca "A great one-stop shop for chic but casual clothes—like See by Chloé tops and J Brand jeans—that are perfect for wearing on camera or just running around town," explains Russo. 1024 Swarthmore Ave., Pacific Palisades, 310-459-7259

Retro Gallery

"They carry beautiful vintage glass and ceramic vessels, which make gorgeous centerpieces, especially when clustered by color," says Adams. 1100 S. La Brea Ave., 323-936-5261

Cane and Basket Supply "Our secret source for the most incredible custom rattan pillows," says Russo. "And they have amazing woven materials that we've used as floor mats." 1283 S. Cochran Ave., 323-939-9644

Kabuki Adams raves about this Japanese imports store: "We get so many ideas for the show here—from ornate obi belts that double as table runners to exquisite porcelain cups for an afternoon tea party." 11355 Santa Monica Blvd., 310-477-2663

Yolk "The unusual European housewares here make the chicest gifts, and they also sell cute graphic paper to wrap it all up," says Adams. 1626 Silver Lake Blvd., 323-660-4315
